Allama Iqbal Library has set up a trial access of a single search interface 'LS Discovery' from LibSys, which will enable users to access all subscribed resources of the library from a single interface. Option to search the subscribed journals, e-books, Online Public Access Catalog of our library collection remains a click away and users do not have to open multiple interfaces for accessing different resources. The latest additions made by the library and the discovery services are updated automatically all the time. The contemporary search navigation in LS Discovery solution is a treat to watch with its smoothness and dexterity in option selection.

All faculty members, research scholars and students are requested to make best use of this resource and provide feedback regarding its usability and ease of access. The LS Discovery search interface can be accessed from the following link:
